Sorensensistem™ Trauma & Bipolar Reflex Therapy
With Lone Sorensen (Prerequisites: None)
Course Dates: March 29 and 30, 2019 - 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM
(Friday & Saturday)

Trauma & Bipolar Reflex Therapy

A method of manually stimulating different areas and points of micro-systems on the face, scalp, and feet, to release trauma and emotions stored in the body's cell memory, limbic system, and amygdala. Balancing the body and brain's hormonal levels will regulate the neurobiological process and balance neurotransmitters, such as serotonin, dopamine, and norepinephrine and release anti-stress hormones. It is possible to facilitate a deep, relaxed, meditative state and achieve inner peace. This will help regulate breathing and heartbeats as well as encourage the body to release emotional toxins, as old traumas stored in both the conscious and subconscious mind. Balancing of the internal chemistry can result in clients feeling peace within their body, mind, and soul, allowing them to regain energy to be able to control their world again and feel sharp, clear, and focused. Instruction and practice each day.
